

Owen River Lodge

SOUTH ISLAND, NEW ZEALAND

Owen River Lodge is where New Zealand's reputation for big trout was built. Located in the South Island's Tasman region, the lodge accesses nearly 30 brown trout fisheries. Your guide team draws on decades of experience to equip you with the right techniques and access to productive water. On top of featuring the world's best sight fishing, this multi-award-winning lodge is just down the road from some of the best hiking, mountain biking, and wine tasting on the planet.

VIEW WEBSITE

PROPERTY FACTS

Three riverside cottages, each with two privately accessed rooms with separate bathrooms and verandas (beds configured as either one king or two twins)

The property includes a main lodge with dining room, lounge, bar and veranda, massage room, outdoor hot tub, and riverside lounge, two acres of riverside vegetable gardens, harvested for meals, and a lodge shop and fly-tying bench

PERFECT FOR

- Solo or coupled anglers, or anglers with non-angling companions
- Guys or girls fly fishing trips
- Fly fishing enthusiasts

WHAT SETS US APART

- Expert guides
- Access to expansive and diverse fisheries
- Multi-award-winning lodge
- Heli-fishing opportunities

INCLUSIVE OF

- Guided fishing
- Select non-fishing guided activities
- In-house culinary, beer and wine
- Pre-arrival custom planning

EXPERIENCES

Owen River Lodge offers double occupancy and single occupancy Individual Room Rates.

SUMMER

Late-September - Late-April
Single Occupancy from $1,330
Double Occupancy from $1,660

Minimum length of stay varies. Rates and inclusions subject to change. Rates listed are nightly based on double occupancy, and reflect current or upcoming seasons.*